Minh: I'm tired of trying to meet my parents expectations. They want me to study well and be good at many things, so they send me to many classes like maths, English, piano, and karate.

Ann: Why don't you tell them your interests and abilities, Minh? I talked to my parents about this so they no longer send me to classes I don't like. Now I just focus on my health and try to lose some weight.

Minh: You look fit, Ann. You should feel good about your body.

Unit 4: Skills 2

Audio script:

Ethnic minority children might live the life different from that of most Kinh children. They spend some of their time helping their parents inside and outside the house. They learn to work from an early age, usually at six. Girls help look after the house, care for smaller children, weave clothing, and prepare food. Boys learn to do what their fathers do. They grow crops, raise the family's livestock, and catch fish.

In the evening, the family often gathers round the open fire. Children listen to stories or legends of heroes from their grandparents. They also listen to adults talk about their work. This is how the elders pass on traditions and knowledge to their children.

Nowadays, more and more minority children are going to school. There, they meet children from other ethnic groups. They play new games and learn new things.

They want me to study well and be good at many things, so they send me to many classes like maths, English, piano, and karate.Ann: Why don't you tell them your interests and abilities, Minh? Ethnic minority children might live the life different from that of most Kinh children. They spend some of their time helping their parents inside and outside the house. They learn to work from an early age, usually at six. Girls help look after the house, care for smaller children, weave clothing, and prepare food. Boys learn to do what their fathers do. They grow crops, raise the family's livestock, and catch fish.

In the evening, the family often gathers round the open fire. Children listen to stories or legends of heroes from their grandparents. They also listen to adults talk about their work. This is how the elders pass on traditions and knowledge to their children.

Nowadays, more and more minority children are going to school. There, they meet children from other ethnic groups. They play new games and learn new things.
